Digital Pen Refractometer Hand Held

This handheld, pen style digital Refractometer measures the Specific Gravity (S.G.) of human urine to determine hydration levels. It has been developed for fast and hygienic use when testing urine to determine hydration. Handling is minimal; there is no need to pipette the sample onto a prism. To use, just simply dip the tip of the refractometer into the specimen sample and press the start button for quick, automatic measurement. Clean up is also quick and easy as the pen-urine Refractometer is IP65 rated and can be rinsed under running water.

- Measure Specific Gravity of Urine
- Test for hydration levels in humans
- Measurement range: 1.0000 to 1.0600
- Accuracy ±0.0010
- The LCD display is easily read, even with dim light

Hydration

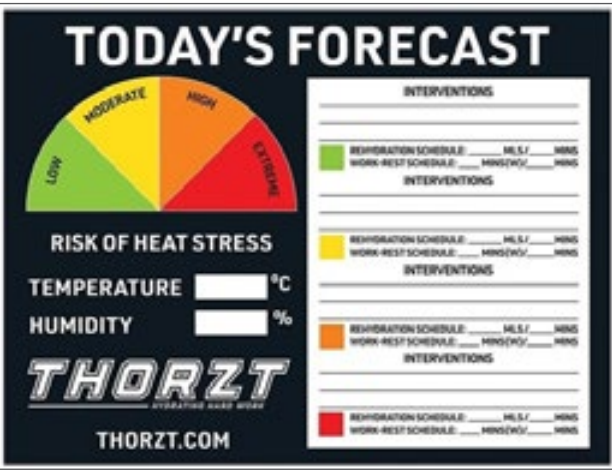

Thorzt "Heat Stress Forecast" Sign

The key to implementing a strong heat stress management programme on site is education. Once workers understand the importance of hydration, and when to hydrate (which is not only when you feel thirsty), an OHS heat stress management programme and disciplined hydration naturally becomes inherent in the workplace culture.

The Thorzt Heat Stress Signs assist with educating staff about the importance of hydrating in the workplace, as well as the warning signs of heat stress and hydration guide.

- Simple and can be displayed on site as a constant reminder to workers
- Size: 900mm x 600mm
- Educational awareness
